NATIONAL ACTION PLAN
for the implementation of UN Security Council Resolution 1325 on Women, Peace, Security until 2025

General Issues

The National Plan takes into account a number of international obligations of Ukraine in the field of human rights, in particular regarding the achievement of the UN Sustainable Development Goals until 2030, set by the UN General Assembly Resolution dated September 25, 2015 No.70/1, implementation of the Beijing Declaration adopted on September 15, 1995 at the Fourth World Conference on Women, the United Nations Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women and its Optional Protocol, the Council of Europe Convention on Action against Trafficking in Human Beings, the Protocol to Prevent, Suppress and Punish Trafficking in Persons, Especially Women and Children, supplementing the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime, the Association Agreement between Ukraine, of the one part, and the European Union, the European Atomic Energy Community and their Member States, of the other part.

In the part of Euro-Atlantic integration, the National Plan pays due consideration to the priorities set by the Annual National Program under the auspices of the NATO-Ukraine Commission. By its structure and content, the Program is based on the NATO recommendations and the priorities of public authorities’ activities, particularly those regarding the reforms in the security and defence sectors and ensuring equal rights and opportunities for women and men.

The UN Women Global Study on Conflict Prevention, Justice Transformation and Peacebuilding, found that women empowerment contributes to countering violent extremism, success of peace negotiations and achievement of durable peace, accelerates economic recovery as well as strengthens peacekeeping operations and increases humanitarian aid effectiveness.

The UN Security Council Resolution 1325 on Women, Peace, Security covers the following areas of activity:

- ensuring full and equal participation of women and men in decision-making at all levels, including in peace negotiations, peacebuilding, reintegration and reconciliation; participation in elections (both as candidates and voters), social and political activities;
- prevention of gender-based violence, including through prosecution for violations of international law; ensuring the participation of women in the prevention, spread and resumption of violent conflicts, as well as the elimination of the causes of their occurrence, in particular through disarmament, counteraction to all forms of exploitation; support for peace initiatives and conflict resolution processes;
- protection of rights and consideration of the needs of victims during and after conflicts, in particular the protection against various forms of violence and harassment (during protracted conflicts, women and girls are particularly at high risk of trafficking, sexual violence and rape);
- addressing the special needs of women and girls, including vulnerable categories (refugees, internally displaced persons, victims of gender-based violence and conflict-related sexual violence), as well as women combatants, women veterans during the provision of services in the field of health care, psychological and humanitarian assistance; ensuring participation of women in economic recovery and transitional justice during conflict and post-conflict situations.

The necessity to develop a National Plan arose due to expiration of the National Action Plan for the Implementation of the UN Security Council Resolution 1325 on Women, Peace, Security until 2020 and the fact that the National Plan for the period until 2020 does not provide solutions to existing and emerging challenges and problems connected with the continuation of the armed aggression of the Russian Federation against Ukraine and the temporary occupation of the Autonomous Republic of Crimea by the Russian Federation.

During the implementation of the National Plan until 2020, significant systemic changes took place, in particular the lifting of the ban forbidding women sergeants to hold combat positions in the Armed Forces; the adoption of the Law of Ukraine "On Amendments to Certain Laws of Ukraine Concerning Ensuring Equal Rights and Opportunities for Women and Men During Military Service in the Armed Forces of Ukraine and Other Military Formations"; permission granted to the recruitment of girls to military and naval lyceums; conduction of a number of training events for specialists in the security and defence sector and educational activities for the population; continuation of professional training of the specialists of central and local executive bodies on the Women, Peace, Security agenda; improvements made to the system of protection of women and girls affected by conflict (identification, assistance, information on assistance).

Effective measures must be taken to ensure women's participation in peace processes and post-conflict recovery, protection of victims of armed conflict, prevention and counteraction to gender-based and conflict-related sexual violence with consideration to the needs and interests of women and men during post-conflict recovery.

The National Plan was developed in accordance with the principles of results-oriented management, results of consultations held in separate regions and the participation of expert community and the public.

The National Plan aims to ensure:
- participation of women in decision making;
- resilience to security challenges;
- post-conflict recovery and transitional justice;
- counteraction to gender-based and conflict-related sexual violence;
- strengthening the institutional capacity of the executors of the National Plan.

Particular attention has been paid to the needs of various groups of women and men, girls and boys affected by conflict, as well as to systematic informing on their rights and the progress made on the NAP’s implementation.

Problem Analysis

The Russian Federation's armed aggression against Ukraine and the temporary occupation of the Autonomous Republic of Crimea and the city of Sevastopol by the Russian Federation started in 2014. Over the past six years, it has become clear that armed aggression has disproportionately affected women and men, especially the civilian population.

Inequality of access of women and men to decision-making processes, resources, as well as stereotypes about the role of women and men in public and political life negatively affect the representation and participation of women in such processes.

Comparing to men, women are much less involved in the settlement and resolution of the international armed conflict in Ukraine as part of security and defence structures and official negotiation missions.

Thus, in 2020, the composition of the Trilateral Contract Group for the peaceful settlement of the situation in eastern Ukraine included only two women from Ukraine, responsible for handling humanitarian and socio-economic issues.

Some positions are currently unavailable for women, including positions in special forces, officer positions whose duties are related to explosives, diving operations, all positions on submarines and ships. At the same time, the total number of women in the Armed Forces is increasing (in March 2020, women made up about 15 percent of military personnel, 902 women hold the rank of senior officers; as of August 2020, two women in Ukraine received the rank of Major General).

Participation of women and men in post-conflict recovery processes is unequal, and the needs of different groups of women and men affected by conflict are not fully taken into account in transitional (restorative) justice.
At the same time, women remain more vulnerable to the adverse effects of armed aggression. According to official statistics, women predominate among internally displaced persons, unemployed internally displaced persons, victims of gender-based violence and other vulnerable groups. According to the data provided by the Ministry of Social Policy, 14,593,02 internally displaced persons were registered in Ukraine, of which 59 percent were women, including women over 65 years of age that constituted 65 percent (as of October 6, 2020).

According to the report of the National Monitoring System for Internally Displaced Persons (2019), the share of employed internally displaced women was 43 percent, while the share of men stood at 58 percent. Women accounted for 90 percent of respondents engaged in housework and provision of care for children or other household members. Forced displacement harms all citizens, but given the manifestations of discrimination and gender stereotypes, it has a substantially larger impact on women. It manifests itself in fewer employment opportunities, lower incomes, greater dependence on social benefits, larger amount of unpaid domestic work and reduced participation in social and political life.

Due to the Russian Federation's armed aggression in the East of Ukraine, a social group consisting of women veterans was formed. According to the Unified Register of Participants in the Anti-Terrorist Operation/Joint Forces Operation, managed by the Ministry of Veterans, over 16.5 thousand women (4.2 percent of the total number of participants in hostilities) received the status of combatants as of April 1, 2020.

The spread of COVID-19 acute respiratory disease caused by SARS-CoV-2 coronavirus in Ukraine has become another security challenge. Under these conditions, the issue of access to information, justice, education, employment, medical and social services, and integration into society has become particularly critical for vulnerable groups of women and men.

The gender-based violence, including conflict-related sexual violence, is among one of the main challenges faced. According to the OSCE-led Survey on the Well-being and Safety of Women conducted in 2019, 67 percent of Ukrainian women who were victims of violence, experienced physical, psychological or sexual violence at the age of 15. There is also evidence of conflict-related sexual violence on the territories of the armed conflict in Ukraine (official statistics are unavailable).

There is no effective mechanism for neither identifying and monitoring potential security challenges in the broader sense (defence interventions, conflicts, violence, natural disasters, epidemics, etc.), nor informing the public about them while also using a gender mainstreaming approach in the context of national security on a national scale.

Significant obstacles to implementing UN Security Council Resolution 1325 on Women, Peace, Security are the lack of knowledge and skills among the actors of the National Plan, limited human and material resources, and proper technical support.

In order to eliminate the consequences of the armed aggression of the Russian Federation against Ukraine, overcome its consequences and protect human rights in Ukraine, it is necessary to recognize the needs and problems of women affected by the conflict, as well as women involved in the settlement of an international armed conflict. Article 4 of the UN Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women provides for temporary special measures aimed at accelerating the establishment of de facto equality between women and men (these measures must be abolished once the goals of equal opportunities and equal relations are achieved).
